CLIODESCRIBING ANALYSIS OF REFLECTION OF HISTORIOGRAPHIC SOURCES ON THE PROBLEM OF POLITICAL EDUCATION OF THE MILITARY PERSONNEL OF SOVIET ARMY IN NATIONAL INFORMATION AND ANALYTICAL SYSTEM

Bobkova E.Yu.

Results of the cliodescribing analysis of historiographic sources on problems of political education of the military personnel of the Soviet Army placed in one of actual for the Russian researchers of scientific and analytical systems now– national information and analytical system «Russian Index of Scientific Citing» are presented in article. The author finds out that the case the analyzing sources presented in this system, is of historiographic value only in aspect of research of scientific publications on the problem, published in recent years the XXI century.

Keywords: political education; military personnel; USSR; domestic historiography; cliometrica.

Global transformational processes of modern society informatization were reflected on formation of new elements in the sphere of scientific potential of domestic researches on problems of political education of the Soviet Army staff.

Updating of use of cliometric methods in scientific researchers led to active formation of various databases reflecting results of scientific researches of the Russian and foreign scientists, including, the considered problem. One of "key" bases for the Russian science at the beginning of the XXI century is the national information and analytical system "Russian Index of Scientific Citing" (further – RISC).

Within this article the codesquirting¹ analysis of historiographic sources on a problem of political education of the military personnel of the Soviet army presented in the general access in this system in March, 2014 is carried out. It should be noted that according to the results of the correlation analysis of the sources presented in RISC, RSL, the information bases of INION of the Russian Academy of Sciences, the author notes the following: high degree of correlation of sources of the last three years in the return chronological sequence has regression tendencies, thus, this base is of historiographic value only in aspect of research of scientific publications on the problem, published in recent years the XXI century². The quantitative analysis of scientific publications on a problem in a chronological order is submitted in fig. 1.

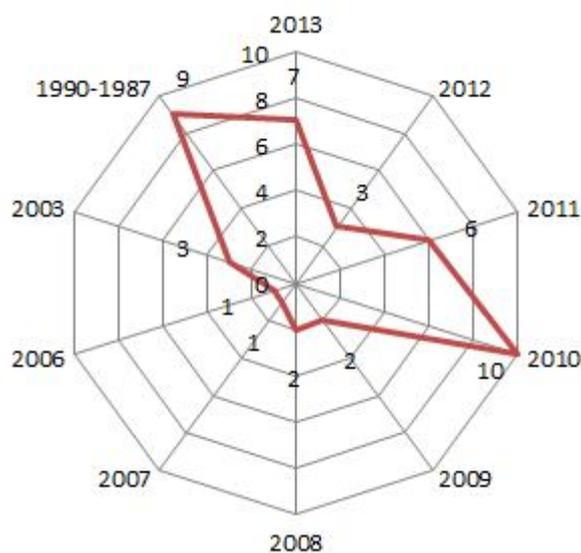

Fig. 1. The quantitative analysis of sources on the studied problem, published in 2013-1987 presented in SEL on 01.03.2014.

In figure 1 it is showed that the most part of scientific publications on a problem of political education the USSR armed forces staff presented in RISC, are let out during 2013-2010 while earlier publications are submitted by the insignificant corpus.

² Note. The correlation analysis in databases and the RISC, RSL and INION RAS electronic catalogs was carried out by the author on keywords in the chronological range: 2013-1990. For data processing the Statistica 6 package is used.

By the results of the content analysis a number of tendencies is revealed: the majority of scientific researches on a studied problem are carried out in a problem - chronological way, and consider a problem of reflection of the military personnel of Soviet Army political education during certain historical periods of the Soviet state development: during the Civil war³, during the interwar period⁴, in the period of the Great Patriotic War⁵ and during the post-war period⁶.

On the basis of figure 2 it is vividly visible that bigger interest of domestic researchers is caused by transformation of political education of soldiers and officers of the Soviet Army concepts during the certain historical periods.

It should be noted that generalizing works on a problem of political education of the USSR armed forces staff covering the entire period of the Soviet state functioning⁷ are present at national information and analytical system.

The content analysis of sources revealed also the case of the publications devoted to research of the scientific category "political education" in historical, philosophical, culturological and political aspects⁸ that emphasizes the importance of studying this problem in the period of methodological pluralism in domestic historical science.

The considered problem is mediated analyzed in the scientific publications devoted to educational work in Armed forces of modern Russia⁹ that also accents the scientific value of further carrying out profile historiographic researches.
